
THE HIGH COST of law enforcement was vividly illustrated Friday when a prisoner in the Camas jail nearly destroyed one of the cells. The commode was ripped from the wall along with the plumbing and shattered. Estimate for the damage was $500. Camas Police Chief Jim Bourland said that patrol car interiors and uniforms are also frequently damaged. In most cases the city must pay the costs.

Police Department Photo